A California Sheep Banch.

Still further south is the Nejull ranch. comprising 40,000 acres. Chief among its possessions are the vast herds of sheep that wander over its broad domains, Perhaps nothing is more interesting than to watch the processes by which the wool is obtained. The sheep shearers are mostly of Mexican origin, and when they put in their appearance present a pict uresque sight, with their gay neckerchiefs and swarthy countenances. They would do well in a picture, but as buman beings they are to be avoided. Cruelty and love of gaming are their charf characteristics. They snip, snip the sheep, and if they take out a piece of fiesh with the wool they snip out another alongside to make it nice and even, meanwhile chanting some queer little runc.

Then a vat of acids is prepared, into which they drop the poor creatures, old sheep and little lambs, thumping them down with poles, in order that they may be well immersed, not caring for the raw, tender flesh exposed by their brutality, nor for the feebleness of the lambs, which scarcely know which way to go. The old sheep, which has passed through sev-eral seasons of this sort of thing, immediately swims through the vat to the place of egress, and passes out; not so the lamb, which struggles and strangles, with that cruel pole pushing it down un-We, the undersigned Banks and Bankers, der the bitter waters, not knowing what to do. Many of them are thus drowned, ate Lotteries which may be presented at ugly outh, fishes them out. At night these inhuman beings sit up and gamble away every dime carned through the day to the sharpers who follow in their wake, but the next day go to work again, chanting and snipping with accustomed

How Chicago Firemen Turn Out. Instead of the sliding pole the authorities have an arrangement peculiarly their own for getting the firemen out. The men sleep on the second floor, directly over the patrol wagon and horses; trap doors open from their room, and stairs, easily sliding into place, conduct the men to the wagon. The cots on which the men sleep stand in a circle, and from the inner end of each goes a cord over a pulley in the center, one end of the cord fast to the bedelothes, the other to a weight attached to the pulley; the electric shock which gives the fire alarm displaces this weight, it drops, and the cord snatches the bedelothes from the sleepers in an instant. The same shock releases the catch on the trap doors; they rise as the stairs sink to their places. The men thus suddenly awakened bound from their beds-they sleep dressed in all but boots and hats-go down the stairs and land direct into the wagon, without, of course, touching the floor, by the time the horses are hitched, putting on their outer cloth-ing as they are whirled through the streets. This scheme is not only good in itself, but it is characteristic of Chicago. -London Fireman.

Rognes Hidden Behind Beards. A gentleman told me once that the profile never changes. He said that no matter what changes came over the full face the lines of the profile remained the same. He thought that the police when they photographed a criminal for the rogues' gallery ought always to do it in profile, and then there would be no mistake in recognizing the man, no matter how long a time had elapsed. I don't tion to the police free of charge. It like. A beard is a wonderful disguise, and it is used as a disguise by many peo-

who never get into the hands of the authorities. There is a bank in London that will not have an employe who has a Those in charge want to see his ace, and then they seem to think they mow what kind of a man they have to eal with. By the way, I give that sugsection to the bank directors of America. Perhaps if they adopted it there would be fewer cashiers taking quick tickets to anada.—Luko Sharp in Detroit Free
